St. Louise de Marillac Mission Statement

Independence Day – Responsibilities and Freedom

Memorial Day always feels like the beginning of summer, but the 4th of July puts a pin in summer. It really is here; we are really going to celebrate! Parks are filled with extended families having a cook-out. Many will be waiting for professional firework's displays at dusk. On July 4th, in Los Angeles County, many neighborhoods are full of people shooting off their own fireworks. It is a loud and exuberant celebration.

We know that we are celebrating America's independence, but rarely do we think about what that means. Independence Day is a day for celebration, a day to express our patriotism for our country, a day to honor those who have fought for our freedom. But most importantly, Independence Day is a day to remember that protecting freedom is our responsibility.

As President Ronald Reagan once said, "Let the Fourth of July always be a reminder that here in this land, for the first time, it was decided that man is born with certain God-given rights; that government is only a convenience created and managed by the people, with no powers of its own except those voluntarily granted to it by the people. We sometimes forget that great truth, and we never should."

Protecting freedom is not just about a strong military, it is a great responsibility that we have been given as citizens of a free nation. As we sing "God Bless America" and bow our heads in prayer, we should thank God for the tremendous blessing of freedom that we enjoy. As we sing our national anthem and pledge allegiance to our flag, we should resolve that, no matter the cost, we will do everything we can to ensure that the freedom that countless Americans have sacrificed their lives for will endure for generations to come.

This includes voting. Voting is not just a right; it is a responsibility. During modern times, a minority of Americans select who will lead the country. Politicians are reviled rather than celebrated for their public service. The system has been skewed towards those who can afford to run rather than towards those who might be better stewards of our country. Minimally, you can vote. Some of you might throw your name out as a potential candidate getting local support and working your way up to national support if that is something you think would be a good idea. Barriers to voting need to be torn down. Every adult American should be encouraged to vote. I am discouraged when I hear anyone say that this group or another shouldn't vote because they will vote the "wrong" way. There is no wrong way.

We should heed President Ronald Reagan's warning that "Freedom is never more than one generation away from extinction. We didn't pass it to our children in the bloodstream. It must be fought for, protected, and handed on for them to do the same, or one day we will spend our sunset years telling our children and our children's children what it was once like in the United States where [everyone was] free."

So, as we eat our hamburgers and hotdogs, let us remember that there is a cost for freedom. A cost each of us is called to pay.

DID ANY CATHOLICS SIGN THE DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE?

During America's founding, there was a lot of hostility towards Catholics. However, there was one openly practicing Catholic who played an essential role in the establishment of this nation.

We don't hear much about Catholic participation in the American War of Independence. The truth is, Catholicism had suffered through a rough history in the British colonies up to that point. Various anti-Catholic laws had shut Catholics out of public life in many of the colonies, and in some cases barred the presence of Catholics and/or their clergy altogether.

Even the state of Maryland, named for Henrietta Maria, the Catholic Queen Consort of Charles I, was supposed to be a haven for Catholics—but anti-Catholic legislation found its way there, too. The New World wasn't the promised land of religious freedom if you were a Catholic.

In fact, the Declaration of Independence was signed by non-Catholics—with one exception. Meet Charles Carroll, the one and only Catholic signer of the Declaration of Independence and one of Maryland's most famous sons. Wealthy and well-educated, he was technically not allowed to hold office in Maryland due to his religion.

In spite of that, he was appointed to many positions and duties within the colonial government of Maryland, became one of the colony's foremost promoters of independence, and represented Maryland at the Continental Congress. He put his name to the Declaration and gave a significant amount of his own fortune to financing the Americans in their war against England.
Charles Carroll's story shows the giant cracks that were appearing in the anti-Catholicism of the American colonies—and these cracks would continue to grow.

George Washington was in favor of liberty for Catholics, and anti-Catholic legislation would gradually fall away as the new country took shape. Catholics would continue to fight against prejudice for the following centuries, for Catholicism was here and it wasn't going away.

Alexis de Tocqueville, in his 19th-century observation of the American way of life Democracy in America, discussed the natural compatibility of Catholicism with the American mindset, "…they [Catholics] constitute the most republican and the most democratic class of citizens which exists in the United States."

But we shouldn't be surprised. After all, though he was the lone Catholic signatory of the Declaration, Mr. Carroll was hardly alone. Charles Carroll's signature was simply a continuation of the amazing story of Catholicism in America. Long before the Revolution, Catholic missionaries had dedicated their lives and shed their blood for the conversion of this land. These intrepid pioneers went willingly into the unknown, into suffering, deprivation, torture, and death for the sake of the Faith. They often had entire populations and governments dead-set against them. The odds were nearly impossible. In human terms, it should all have failed miserably. But it didn't. It's a story that's American to its core.

GOOD NEWS IS ON THE WAY

This week, in the midst of summer, the scriptures greet us with joy, peace, mercy, and more peace! Sounds a little like Advent, doesn't it? We often associate the prophet Isaiah with that preparatory season, and our first reading rings with such words as exult, comfort, and rejoice. The Israelites had reason to rejoice, for they had returned, come home, to a rebuilt Jerusalem from their exile in Babylon.

In the Gospel, the seventy-two disciples who were sent out have their own "homecoming," returning to Jesus from spreading the Good News of the Kingdom and preparing people for the "advent" of Jesus into their cities and towns on his long road to Jerusalem. Like the exiles in Isaiah, the disciples return rejoicing.

The Good News, the Kingdom of God, is coming, even in summer. As today's psalm reminds us, "Shout joyfully to God, all the earth!"

14TH SUNDAY IN ORDINARY TIME

EYES FIXED ON THE GOAL

In today's Gospel passage, Jesus sent the seventy-two out to prepare people's hearts and minds for him. The disciples whom he sent were to rely on the hospitality of those whom they served, and above all, to proclaim the kingdom of God. When they returned, joyful that so many had been healed through Christ's power, Jesus told them that true joy is to know our names are written in heaven. In other words, we must keep our eyes fixed on the ultimate goal, to be with God for eternity. In the heavenly Jerusalem, we will find comfort and overflowing nourishment. Our hearts will know joy beyond what we can imagine. Saint Paul tells us today that knowing the grace of Jesus Christ changes everything, giving new perspective, peace, and mercy.

CALLED TO HIGHER THINGS

Think about a typical day for you. From the time you awake until your day ends, you may be busy, focused on work or family with little time to pause except perhaps a few moments for lunch or dinner. Most of us would say this is an accurate description of life as we know it. And if we are honest with ourselves, we see much good that comes from the attention we pay to the people in our lives and the tasks that we accomplish. We may even be mindful of our call to do these things with and through the Lord as we go about our lives. Yet we must remember that we are also called to higher things. We are in the world but not of it. Our ultimate goal is to be with God for eternity, and all our activities, tasks, and interactions must bear this great purpose in mind.

THE KINGDOM OF GOD IS AT HAND

Jesus sent the seventy-two to proclaim the kingdom of God. They were to show people God's love by the way in which they lived. They were to travel simply, with only the provisions that were needed, rely on the good will of the people they served, and care for those who were in need. While some of us are called to live as missionaries, visiting places far from the comfort of home, most of us are called to live faithfully in our daily lives, where we are, with family and friends, co-workers, fellow citizens of our local towns and cities, our country, and the world. Whether we go to far-off lands to serve and share Christ's message of mercy or we serve in simple ways at home and in our local place, we must remember that whenever we reach out to heal, forgive, and show compassion, the kingdom of God is at hand. Christ is with us and will remain with us.

PRAYER OF THE WEEK

Fourteenth Sunday in Ordinary Time

O God, who in the abasement of your Son have raised up a fallen world,
fill your faithful with holy joy,
for on those you have rescued from slavery to sin
you bestow eternal gladness.
Through our Lord Jesus Christ, your Son, who lives and reigns with you in the unity of the Holy Spirit,
God, for ever and ever.

Reflection:
Do those around me see in me the joy of someone who has been rescued from sin ?

DID YOU KNOW?

Teach your children what to do when they are lost

Preparing your children for a situation where they might get lost or separated from you can help resolve a scary situation more quickly. Talk to your children about what to do if they ever get lost in a crowd. First, tell them to stay where they are. Teach them how to locate another safe adult — a park or store employee, someone in uniform, another mom with children — and how to ask for help. A great tip for parents is to start immediately shouting a name, age, and description of the missing child so others around you are searching too. For more tips, read "What your child should know about being lost" at busytoddler.com/kids-get-lost.

For more information on other ways to keep kids safe, contact Linda Filkins, the Parish Safeguard Committee Chairperson at the Parish Office at(626) 915-7873 or the Archdiocesan Safeguard the Children Office at (213) 637-7227.
